AAMC Talks With JAMMA
On Asia, Indian Expo

On the first day of the JAMMA "97" show, the "3DX Files Suit Against Sega" headline was a big issue. With Masayuki Nakamori, honorary president of AAMC, serving as moderator, the heads exchanged information about amusement parks and Sega's 3DX suit.

The participants from Japan were joined by eight members of JAMMA including president Hayao Nakajima, two representatives of ACE including president Shinya Irie, and two representatives of JAEPA including president Saburo Yamada. Those from the USA were Mike Redmond, president of AAMC, Bob Hoy, EVP of AAMC, and Don Hersch '91 VP and John Stautfeld, Treasurer of AAMCA. Other participants included Rossel Smith, president of BACTA, and representatives of KAMMA, Korea, and LAGA, Hong Kong.

AAMC opened the meeting by emphasizing the importance of the "3DX Files Suit Against Sega" and suggested that, since Asia Amusement Expo 2017 theme park Expo, held in Singapore on August 27-29 was successful, there would be to hold Asia Amusement Expo, side by side with JAMMA, to start the future. AAMC also expressed that they are ready to participate in the India Amusement Expo to be held in March 1999.

To this proposal, JAMMA replied that they would like to discuss it positively on condition that they can obtain the members' consent. As regards the expansion in India, JAMMA said that, since the market situation is uncertain, a detailed examination of the matter is necessary.

JAMMA then reported the results of their research in Japan, and AAMC also reported on the "Day of Game" campaign.

AAMC explained about the progress of the of the 3DX File suit in the USA. BACTA reported that 42 cents will be raised and incorporated into this year's budget. AAMC explained about relocation of the Nihonbashi business and the holding of "Amuse World" LAGA reported that, from June, parallel importing of video games was prohibited in Hong Kong.

Sega Enterprises Ltd., Tokyo, announced that it obtained a Japanese patent number 897,899 on August 22 for the system that changes the player's viewpoint in CG driving games. This patent is widely used for coin-operated video and home video, and Sega says that it will explain the licensing procedures to the respective manufacturers.

This patent was applied for in June 1992 and has finally been registered after more than five years. In the CG driving game "Virtual Racing" which was shipped in September 1992 by Sega, it was possible for the first time to change the player's viewpoint from the driver's view, regular, bike's eye view and helicopter view at once.

Under the Patent Law, it is stipulated that within one year from the publication of the patent registration gutter, an objection can be raised by a third party. However, if the objection of the patent gutter will be published around January 1998. Manufacturers other than Sega who may be suing this patent are examining the situation.
